DESCRIPTION OF MATERIAL Fourteen of the 71 black and white still photographs (with negatives) were taken from ground points. The remainder were taken from a helicopter at altitudes close to five hundred ft. The helicopter shots were taken between 2:30 and 3:45 PM on or about 15 Mar 54. The photographs are described in the order in which they were taken so that they may be easily referred to on the rolls of negatives. This order follows the flight of the helicopter, beginning in the east central part of the Saar near Homburg and proceeding westward over the industrial area of Neunkirchen, thence southwest to St. Ingbert and Saarbrücken. From Saarbrücken the helicopter followed the Saar River northwest to Völklingen, Dillingen, Saarlouis and Merzig before returning to Germany. Accompanying the photographs is a set of 31 maps of the Saarland (scale 1:25,000) on which are marked the exact locations of each photograph described in the text. These locations are shown by numbered red arrows marked on the maps. These arrows begin at the point where the picture was taken and extend in the direction of aim to the approximate point of farthest vision. In the descriptions of the photographs (which appear on attached sheets) the number of the appropriate map sheet appears in parentheses behind the number of each exposure described. Each of the small prints also includes the number of the map sheet on which it appears (on the back in red pencil).
